

A stylized illustration of a tree with brown branches and green leaves, set against a light green background. The tree is composed of several main branches that curve upwards and outwards, with smaller branches and leaves extending from them. The leaves are simple, oval shapes with a central vein and smaller veins branching off. The overall style is clean and modern, with a focus on natural elements.

A Time for Significant Leadership

*A Strategy for Implementing First

A Time for Significant Leadership

A Toolkit for Catalyst Leaders

Note: This Toolkit is designed to be used with “A Time for Significant Leadership Implementation Guide”, available at: <http://www.learning.gov.sk.ca/FNM-Professional-Development>

Introduction

The Catalyst Leadership Team is integral to the successful implementation of processes involving significant and transformational change, such as A Time for Significant Leadership (ATFSL). The role of the Catalyst Leader is to support schools in planning and goal-setting, in making links to the Continuous Improvement Framework, and to other existing system initiatives and goals. Like the Continuous Improvement Framework, ATFSL is a recursive cycle of planning, action, reflection and evaluation. More information about the role of the Catalyst Leaders is available in the A Time for Significant Leadership Implementation Guide.

Part I

The first part of the process is introducing ATFSL to school division leaders, administrators and others (School Community Councils, Elders, First Nations and other education stakeholders and partners). Refer to Appendix A – Introductory Power Point Presentation. Consistent key messages are important. The development of a script or notes will ensure clarity and consistency, as well as alignment to division and school goals and initiatives.

Key Messages will answer the following...

- ✿ What is First Nations and Métis Education?...and what is it not?
- ✿ Why is First Nations and Métis Education important in our school division?
- ✿ Why is First Nations and Métis Education important for all students?
- ✿ How does First Nations and Métis Education benefit all students?
- ✿ What are some challenges and opportunities in implementing First Nations and Métis Education plans?
- ✿ What resources are available to support schools to be successful?
- ✿ How will we know when we are successfully moving in the right direction?

Note: Workshops to engage participants in understanding First Nations and Métis Education should be done prior to leading school audits, planning and goal-setting.

The first sections of the ATFSL Implementation Guide provide information to develop shared understandings and key messages, collaboratively. A variety of exercises and activities, resources and strategies have been included in this guide to support the ongoing development of the Catalyst Leadership Team. Please refer to Appendix B – Resources, Strategies, Activities and Exercises. The First Nations and Métis Education Branch welcomes suggestions for additional ideas and suggestions that develop deeper understanding of the complex issues that impact on First Nations and Métis education, and to foster personal and professional reflective inquiry.

Establishing a Benchmark:

A Perception Survey has been developed for Catalyst Leaders and Administrators to complete prior to beginning the planning process, and again at the end of the first cycle of planning. Results may be used to inform specific professional development needs, and areas of strength among the leadership team. The Perception Survey may also be adapted for school staffs, students and other groups. Please refer to Appendix C – Perception Survey - Administrators.

Part II

Once the Catalyst Leadership Team is ready for implementation, it becomes important to develop a plan to introduce the process to school division leaders, administrators and others. The catalyst team's effectiveness and impact depends on the support, advice, and guidance of local leadership (ie. division Superintendents, Consultants, Principals and Vice-Principals, First Nations/Métis Partners). The introduction is intended to:

- ✿ Foster and strengthen a good working relationship.
- ✿ Open doors to positive communication and sensitive/controversial, unknown/unexplored areas.
- ✿ Introduce/establish workplans for the implementation process.
- ✿ Develop a communication and reporting strategy.
- ✿ Build capacity at the school level, with administrators, staff, students, community, and others who will carry out the work of implementation – and whose engagement draws them into the catalyst process.

The School Leadership Audit Process:

Catalyst Leaders begin the audit process with the school division leaders, administrators and others at the first steps of implementation. The section titled, “Planning for Meaningful Action”) includes questions and prompts to support catalyst leaders as they begin these important dialogues. This section also provides the “Rubric for Planning” to help guide the remaining audits in the Four Broad Areas of Recommendation¹.

Catalyst leaders initiate a discussion about the rubric to develop responses and suggestions for school staffs. This rubric can be adapted to respond to local needs and realities. Indicators may be added as appropriate. You will notice that the rubric has verbs only. The intent is to challenge staffs to discuss the reality of current situations, and to understand that doing nothing (“Yet to Be Explored”), on further examination, could mean doing something with negative impacts.

The guide includes the Principles of First Nations and Métis Education (pg 24-25), which could be plotted and used to determine a system benchmark. A tool for plotting is provided in Appendix B.

Leading School Audits:

A visual illustration of the cyclical nature of ATFSL can be found in Appendix D – The Recursive Planning Cycle.

Participants’ prior knowledge about each of the Four Broad Areas of Recommendation should be activated prior to beginning audits. A sharing circle/Talking Circle is an excellent way to begin.

Some prompts to begin the circle are:

- ✿ What have your experiences been, with First Nations and Métis Education?
- ✿ What stories can you share about your experiences?
- ✿ What are your hopes and dreams for significant change (related to FNME)?

¹ The Four Broad Areas of Recommendation are drawn from the Action Plan of the First Nations and Métis Provincial Education Advisory Committee (FNMEPAC), formerly AEPAC, in “Aboriginal Education Provincial Advisory Committee Action Plan: Year 2000 – 2005, and follow-up AEPAC Priorities Report to the Minister, “The Learning Community in Aboriginal Education: Priorities Report 2005-2007””. These can be accessed through the following website: <http://www.learning.gov.sk.ca/First%20Nations-Metis%20Education>.

Each of the four audits is set up in the same order. Using Cultural Affirmation & School Climate as an example, the process is as follows:

General Overview – Page 29:

...provides a general description of the area of recommendation.

Defining the Broad Area – Page 30:

...details the four sub focus areas within this broad area of recommendation.

Scenarios and Discussion/Dialogue Guide – Pages 31-32:

...offers scenarios to begin discussion “outside” of the participants’ experiences, but which often activate personal responses and reactions.

Introduction of Rubric for Planning and Preliminary Discussion about Current Practices – Page 33 :

...moves the dialogue “back to home”. A review of the “A Continuum of Growth” rubric should begin this discussion (pg 26). A series of questions are designed as group discussion prompts. Following these discussions, begin a process to analyze current practice to the continuum to determine where the school feels they are, in each sub focus area. This result may change as deeper dialogue occurs, therefore, a safe climate is key.

The Ideal State – Page 34:

...works to create a common vision about the “ideal state”. What would be happening, what would people be doing (not doing), what would we see/hear/feel in this ideal state of a truly culturally affirming school climate? The task on this chart is to define the idea, and move backward to develop your own indicators of growth. As you move backward, you will begin to visualize your own current state on the chart (the things that are happening right now). How does this compare or differ from your earlier discussion about where you are on the continuum? Adjust the continuum accordingly.

Developing Outcomes and Indicators – Page 35-36 :

...moves the discussion into more formalized outcomes (what we want schools to do, know, and be within a specific time frame), indicators, and measures of success. Using the responses from the previous exercises, determine (using the Indicator Prompts on the left hand column) specific outcomes in each of the four sub-areas. For example, in the sub-area “Positive Self-Identity”, a specific outcome might be.... “Conscious efforts are made to ensure that all students feel a sense of belonging in our school, in their classroom, on the playground.” “All staff regularly engage in dialogues to share ways to affirm the value and dignity of each child.”

Outcomes are developed, taking into consideration the following:

- 📌 How could outcomes be measured?

- ✿ What currently exists to assess our progress?
- ✿ What are some significant gap areas?
- ✿ What might we develop locally?
- ✿ What will we need to support our efforts?

Indicators can be developed to support outcomes, by providing a clearer picture of the depth and breadth of the outcome. The indicators help us to determine what the specific knowledge, skills and attitudes are to reach the outcomes. Begin with 1-3 Indicators that will fully support achievement of an outcome. Some examples of Indicators to support the Outcome, “All staff regularly engage in dialogues to share ways to affirm the value and dignity of each child.”

Engage in actions to ensure consistent reminders of the outcome are evident throughout the school.

Research current literature in effective practices in affirming belonging and self-identity. Engage in dialogue with colleagues to determine skills and attitudes that affirm belonging and self-identity.

Share successful strategies, model examples.

Planning for First Nations and Métis Education: Learning Improvement Plan – Page 37:

...provides a template to guide goal-planning. Using the outcomes and indicators developed in each of the four sub-areas, consider which actions could be accomplished in a short period of time, and which will need a longer period of time. The catalyst leader’s role is to support (not lead) the group in creating goals. Catalyst leaders encourage and support Administrators and other school leaders to lead this process. It is important that the school feel a strong sense of ownership of the goals and plans. Appendix E – Planning for First Nations and Métis Education: *Learning Improvement Plan.

Seeing Beyond:

...provides a tool for Catalyst Leaders to support the group in seeing other areas of impact. Some reflective prompts include:

- ✿ Does this plan link clearly and reasonably to our division continuous improvement plan?
- ✿ Do all members of our staff possess the necessary knowledge, skills and attributes to carry out this plan?
- ✿ What staff development/training is needed?
- ✿ Do we have the capacity and resources to carry out this plan?
- ✿ Are there people in our division/school/community who could lead staff development/training?
- ✿ How can we involve/mentor others (School Community Council, parents, Elders, students)?

🏠 How will we sustain this?

Plotting Findings:

Catalyst leaders can support schools in plotting themselves based on the outcomes of their audits in each of the broad areas of recommendation, see Appendix E – ATFSL School Audit Scatter Plot. The plot provides a visual graphic benchmark to which subsequent plots are added; these show areas of growth or areas that need further improvement. Catalyst leaders, together with division staff and educational partners, may use the plots to coordinate planning for division-wide and division-specific staff development and to make links to existing or emerging initiatives and priorities.

The First Nations and Métis Education Branch is interested in approaches developed by catalyst leadership teams. Please submit your suggestions and ideas to improve the guide & toolkit to:

Appendix A – Introductory Power Point Presentation Slides

(request electronic copies through your FNMEB Superintendent)

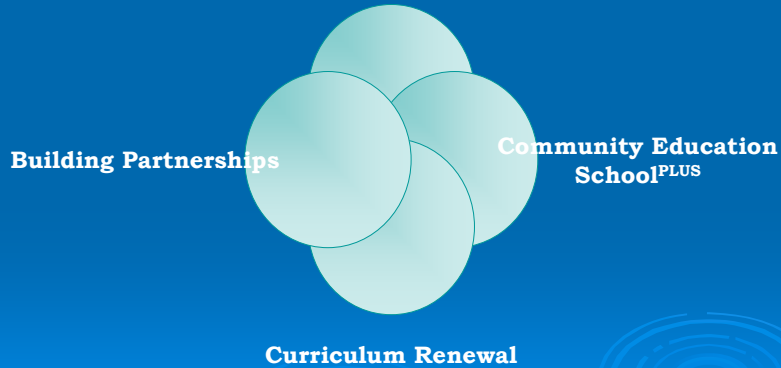

What is ATFSL?

- A capacity building strategy to support school divisions as they develop First Nations and Métis education plans
- Not an “add on”. Aligned to other initiatives, such as the Continuous Improvement Framework and Curriculum Development
- Honours the recommendations of the First Nations and Métis Education Provincial Advisory Committee (FNMEPAC), formerly AEPAC

Intersecting Provincial Initiatives

Continuous Improvement Framework

Four Areas of Recommendation

Cultural Affirmation & School Climate

Curriculum Renewal

Building Partnerships

Shared Decision-Making

Curriculum Actualization

Community Education/
School^{PLUS}

Continuous Improvement Framework

Life Long Learning

First Area of Recommendation

Cultural Affirmation & School Climate

Research shows that First Nations & Métis students don't always feel a sense of belonging in their schools.

School reflects students lives and the community.

Schools promote wholistic well-being by affirming cultures, traditions, languages, spirituality and worldviews of all students.

Adapted from AEPAC Action Plan, 2000-2005

When thinking of CASC, consider...

- Nurturing Wholistic Development of Self-Identity
- Safe & Caring Learning Environment
- Strengthening Relationships
- Social Justice & Equity

Second Area of Recommendation

Education that truly reflects the diversity of the province will include the meaningful involvement of First Nations and Métis people in decisions affecting the lives of children.

Shared Decision Making

First Nations and Métis people are involved in meaningful ways, including decision-making processes.

First Nations and Métis parents/community, Elders, governments and schools work together in a shared decision-making process.

When thinking of SDM, consider...

- ✿ Authentic Engagement & Representation
- ✿ Collaborative Planning & Shared Responsibility
- ✿ Fostering Community & Youth Leadership
- ✿ Building Partnerships

Third Area of Recommendation

Curriculum Actualization

Provincial Curriculum is effectively implemented and renewed.

Administrators and teachers are aware of policy, new directions in provincial education, and staff development supports.

Teachers have adequate support through actualization and assessment.

Adapted from AEPAC Action Plan, 2000-2005

All students benefit from a learning program that includes First Nations and Métis content, perspectives and Ways of Knowing.

When thinking of CA, consider...

- ✿ Culturally Responsive Teaching & Learning Practices
- ✿ First Nations & Métis Content & Perspectives
- ✿ Assessment & Evaluation
- ✿ Supportive Professional Development

Fourth Area of Recommendation

Life Long Learning

Learning is a life long process beginning at birth and continuing through all stages of life.

School is only one part of an individual's education, and an integral part of First Nations and Métis education.

Elders, family, extended family and community are important to teaching and learning.

Respecting diverse perspectives of education is a multi-faceted process that occurs in, and beyond, school.

Adapted from AEPAC Action Plan, 2000-2005

When thinking of LLL, consider...

- ✿ Mentorship, Leadership, Role Models
- ✿ Planning for and Managing Transitions
- ✿ Indigenous Knowledge & Worldviews
- ✿ Connecting School to Community, Learning to Life

Educational Stakeholders and Partners

- ✿ Teaching Treaties in the Classroom (OTC)
- ✿ Shared Standards & Capacity Building Council
- ✿ Aboriginal Employment Development Program (AEDP), in partnership with the SSBA
- ✿ MOU with Federation of SK Indian Nations

Why ATFSL?

- ✿ Long-standing absence of First Nations & Métis “voice” in the education system
- ✿ Demographic shifts and trends for First Nations & Métis learners
- ✿ Collaboratively develop goals linked to the Continuous Improvement Framework to ensure the successful outcomes for all learners
- ✿ Ensuring the actualization of First Nations & Métis Education Policy (2008)

Principles

- First Nations and Métis worldviews are valid ways of knowing and understanding the world.
- Accountability in the area of First Nations and Métis Education is essential to progress.
- Communication throughout the system is key to the achievement of common goals.
- Quality and authenticity are essential considerations in all First Nations and Métis education policy and program initiatives.
- All people must have equitable opportunities to succeed, coupled with respect for individual experiences and knowledge.

Goals

“Our wish is to see all of our children, learning, growing, and flourishing in education and employment”

- Equitable outcomes for First Nations and Métis learners;
- All learners have knowledge of the unique contributions of First Nations and Métis peoples to Saskatchewan, as prerequisite knowledge that we are all Treaty people;
- Data collection and reporting on measures outlined in the Ministry’s First Nations and Métis Education Policy Framework that demonstrate accountability towards educational outcomes;
- Shared management of the provincial education system by partnering with First Nations and Métis peoples.

Who is ATFSL for?

Saskatchewan Learning's First Nations and Métis Education Branch staff provide leadership and support to school-based catalyst teams consisting of youth, school staff, teachers, families, administration and community that is reflective and inclusive of local communities.

What will it Look Like for Learners?

- Each learner is honoured as a unique individual with gifts to contribute
- Each individual is able to develop a positive healthy self-identity
- The learning environment is a safe, wholistic and caring place for all learners to grow and succeed
- Learners benefit from culturally affirming and responsive learning, inclusive of First Nations and Métis content and “ways of knowing”, including treaty education
- Young people have opportunities to develop and practice leadership skills, and to engage with/as mentors and role models
- Transitions are planned for, and managed, to allow for optimum success

What will it Look Like for Staffs?

- Educators are supported through effective learning opportunities
- Assessment and evaluation is used to inform instructional practice and to determine progress toward broad goals
- Administrators and educators have opportunities to demonstrate/develop leadership and build systemic capacity
- Relationships, partnerships are developed as critical supports to the learning program

What will it Look Like for Community and Stakeholders?

- The school/community is committed to social justice and equity for all young people, contributing to greater social harmony
- Community, partners, students are included in decision-making in authentic ways
- Decisions are made through collaborative planning and shared responsibility and inclusive of Indigenous Knowledge
- Community members' knowledge about Treaties, as well as First Nations and Métis peoples cultures, histories and worldviews is increased
- School-home life experiences connect to create wholistic learning opportunities
