Overview of Travel and Objectives

Saskatchewan, as one of the most trade dependent provinces in Canada, is a strong supporter of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). The government believes NAFTA has had an overwhelmingly positive impact on the economies of Canada, Mexico and the United States.

In 2015, the George W. Bush Institute convened the North America Working Group to analyze areas where the U.S., Canada, and Mexico can improve economic integration. The Working Group is composed of academics, business leaders and government officials from each country. Premier Wall was invited to participate in a panel discussion on competitiveness.

In November 2016, Premier Wall returned to Dallas to finalize the recommendations of the North America Working Group. Premier Wall had two official speaking/moderator roles. The Premier provided remarks on the “Outlook and Vision for North America in 2017 and Beyond” and also moderated a panel discussion at the North American Strategy for Competitiveness (NASCO) Continental Reunion, which was held in part at the George W. Bush Institute. NASCO is a non-profit, voluntary coalition of North American governments, businesses and educational institutions working to enhance commercial corridors and trade networks.
