The Queen Elizabeth II Centennial Aboriginal Scholarship is a $20,000 non-renewable annual award to a student of First Nations or Métis heritage who has graduated from a Saskatchewan university with preference given to students who have attended the First Nations University of Canada. Applicants must be enrolled in full-time graduate or post-graduate studies at any accredited Saskatchewan university. In the event of two equally deserving applicants, the award will be split equally between these candidates.

The Adjudicating Committee for The Queen Elizabeth II Centennial Aboriginal Scholarship would appreciate a confidential statement from you concerning the applicant named above. Please describe the following attributes of the applicant which would make him or her particularly suited to be the recipient of this scholarship:

- Intellectual and scholarly strengths (potential and demonstrated); and
- Personal qualifications, strengths, and achievements.

PLEASE RETURN TO APPLICANT IN A SEALED ENVELOPE, SIGNED ACROSS SEAL,
PRIOR TO THE FEBRUARY 28 DEADLINE

This letter must be received as part of the application package to ensure the student's application will be considered.
